SOFTWARE DEVELOPER

Hello, I'm Daniel. I am a professional software engineer with experience in developing various web and Android applications. I have a strong background in scaling products to meet client needs and integrating APIs into both web and mobile platforms, which has helped me gain a solid understanding of common challenges in development. With years of experience in building robust applications, I have successfully navigated a range of technical issues. I am confident that my skills and commitment would make me a valuable asset to your team.
